

comedian Shaun Eli

www.BrainChampagne.com Shaun@BrainChampagne.com (212) 252-2888

- One of the country's smartest comics according to "Reader's Digest" magazine
- Founder and host of Ivy Standup^(sm) featuring clean, smart pro comics who graduated from top colleges
- Regular host of "Comedy Fights Cancer" shows for patients, family, staff at NYC's Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center
- Featured on Sirius Satellite Radio, profiled on CBS News, subject of front-page story in Philadelphia Inquirer
- Popular guest on national "Joey Reynolds Radio Show" (syndicated to more than 100 markets)
- "Tonight Show" host Jay Leno cited Shaun's jokes as the type of "smart comedy" he likes to use in his opening monologue
- His popular website BrainChampagne.com is top-ranked by major search engines (Google, AOL, Yahoo, Ask, Netscape)
- Author of "How to Tell a Joke" column in "Pennsylvania Gazette" magazine

Reader's Digest called comedian Shaun Eli one of the smartest comics in the country. He is the host and producer of Ivy Standup^(sm). His clean, clever comedy is featured on Sirius Satellite Radio and he has been profiled on CBS Radio Business News. He is also a frequent contributor to the opening monologue of "Tonight Show" host Jay Leno, who has cited one of Shaun's jokes as an example of the type of "smart comedy" which he's happy to include in his opening monologue. You can find Shaun's jokes, stand-up video, comedic essays and biography on his web site www.BrainChampagne.com, where his slogan "Brain Champagne: Clever Comedy for Smart Minds^(sm)" rings true.